GATHER GLADNE S. Let us gather all the gladness God has strewn along our way; Bid the last year's pain and sadness, I ike dark gloom-clouds flee away While we count our "many blessings, Dropp'd from skyland as the dew, Spurn all evil doubts and guessings. Knowing God is ever true!

One unchanging truth remember—
'God is God," for aye and sye;
In life's dreary, gray November,
As in golden flow'ry May,
Yield to God a free thanksgiving,
In Lethe's waves our sorrows drown,
And may Christ of all the living,
Wast our praises as His crown Wear our praises as His crown.

Ah, past days and mouths momentous, Ah, past days and mouths momentous,
Fraught with all a Nation's woe;
War clouds low'ning, grim, p. tentous!
Yet, their gleaming linings throw
Silv'ry lights, bright as I ife's Eiver,
Gliding onward to the Throne;
There slain heroes dwell forever,
Claim'd of Jesus, as His own.

On its fair banks balmy, vernal, On its fair banks baimy, vernal,
Camp war-comrades side by side;
Drinking at this fount eternal,
Bathing in its healing tide;
Bid the clear "dead past" go bury
Its own dead—low, let it lie;
Friends, be cheerful, if not merry, the the darm are moving by. 2 s the days are moving by !

Let us take, as God has given, Lights and shadows wis sly blent: Times of Peace: days, dark, waret ven, All by His own Hand are but! Let us take, and share with others. Flenty, famine, joy or wo; Christ once made all men as brothers, "God is God, forevermere!

Gather sunlight, radiant, shiring Down in filt'ring golden beams; Yield no longer to repi ing.
Life is more than idle dreams:
Toil on, till the purple gloaming

Softly falls at setting sun,
When God's singing-reapers coming,
Bring to us the guerden won.

"BICYCLE KIDNEY."

The "bicycle heart," produced by excessive riding of the wheel, is a matter of common knowledge. Now, it is alleged, there is such a thing as a "bicycle kidney," or, at least, that wheel-men subjecting themselves to strain by long runs, sprinting, racing, &r., without sufficiently careful t aining, develop the signals of Bright's disease.

The Jefferson Medical College laboratory staff in Philadelphia has for some time been making a study of the secretions of the kidneys of professional wheelmen and others addicted to long rides. It was found that usua'ly wi hin twenty minutes after a long ride there were traces of albumer, or what is known as albuminuria, which is one of the symptoms of Bright's disease. The difference between albuminuria in atheletes and Bright's disease is that the former is temporary; it passes off after twelve hours. If it does not the kidneys are not doing the work they ought to do.

The laboratory physici ins now have under observation a number of men of a bicycle club who are training for races. Several of these have temporary albuminuria. In all cases but one the al buminuria disappeared in the regulation time. In true Bright's disease "casts" are secreted from the kidneys; in temporary albuminuria these cases are not present. If the wheelman shows aluminuria in a marked degree, and coninues to ride excessively, he will eventually become a sufferer from

Bright's disease. The experiments of the medical college indicate that this danger is comparatively small, and less in the case of the wheelman who maintains him-self in good condition that in the case of one who is irregular in his training nabits. Said Dr. Coplin, rector of the aboratory, on this point:-"There is no doubt that danger ex-Losses Promptly and Satisfactorily ists, and everyone going into training ought to be prepared for it. SEWED A BUTTON ON HER FINGER .-Rosie Pierre, 16 years old, of New York, met with a singular accident in | weather. Joseph Klein & Co.'s tailor shop yesterday. She was putting buttons on irousers, using for that purpose a machine that stamps them on and clinches then on the other side. She got her hand into the machinery. It did not stop. It went right on. The next button wa- sunk deep into the flesh of the last joint of her index finger, and clinched all right on the nail side. With it so fixed she was taken over to police headquarters. The button was fastened as if it were never to come off. An ambulance was sent for, but the surgeon knew of no way to get it off. He took her over to St. Vincent's Hospital. The surgeons at the hospital cut the A NEW LOT OF HOUSE FURNISHING and expense. Also increase the nicety of your service.
